Re Item V.

- 1 The following documents are referred to in this communication:
D1 : FR 2 794 418 A (HURBE EMILE) 8 December 2000

- 2 INDEPENDENT CLAIMS 1 AND 18

Document D1, which is considered to represent the most relevant state of the art, discloses (see fig. 3, the references in parenthesis applying to this document):

a shopping cart designed as play apparatus, comprising a nestable shopping cart (2) with a frame-supported shopping basket provided with castors, which shopping cart (2) is provided with a child seat (36), connected to the basket, arranged adjacent the front side (38) on the inside of the shopping basket and what could be referred to as a decoration shield (4) (since it can be seen to improve the appearance of the trolley), detachably connected to the basket, arranged adjacent the front side (38) on the outside of the shopping basket.

However the decoration shield is mounted to a specific trolley having a foldable child seat connected to the front wall of the shopping trolley basket; the use of such a specific trolley that necessitates having a foldable seat fixedly attached to its front part is thus seen as a drawback of this device.

The same document D1 shows in an alternative embodiment (see fig. 1 and 2) that a conventional trolley, as already available in most shopping places, can receive a child seat detachably connected to the basket, arranged to the front side on the inside of the shopping basket.

The skilled person would thus replace the fixedly attached seat of the specifically built trolley by the detachable seat mountable on any conventional trolley to arrive at a shopping cart having all the features of the shopping cart according to claim 1.

The same reasoning applies equally to the method of claim 18 (see D1 fig. 1).

The subject-matter of claims 1 and 18 does not involve an inventive step in the sense of Article 33(3) PCT, and therefore the criteria of Article 33(1) PCT are not met.

3 DEPENDENT CLAIMS 2-5,7,9,11,14,15,18

Dependent claims 2-5, 7, 9, 11, 14, 15, 18 do not contain any features which, in combination with the features to which they refer, meet the requirements of the PCT in respect of novelty and/or inventive step (Article 33(2) PCT).

4 DEPENDENT CLAIMS 6,8,10,12,13,16,17

The combination of the features of dependent claims 6, 8, 10, 12, 16, 17 are neither known nor rendered obvious by the available prior art. These claims thus meet the requirements of Articles 33(2) and 33(3) PCT.

By providing the shopping basket of a conventional shopping cart adjacent the nose with a detachable child seat inside the shopping basket and a detachable decoration shield at the outside of the basket, a shopping cart already present in the shop can be executed as play apparatus. With the 5 decoration shield, around the nose of the shopping cart, a play space can be realized, for instance a scooter, an elephant or a plane, by giving the decoration shield the shape and appearance of the front part of a scooter, the head of an elephant or the nose of a plane, respectively. When the seat and the decoration shield have been detached, the shopping cart can be stored in the customary 10 manner, nested in one row with other shopping carts, so that it takes up little space. The child seat and the decoration shield can be stored separately from the shopping cart, for instance in a wall rack. By using a conventional shopping cart, no investments are required for a special shopping cart and further, the spacious basket of such a cart can be used.

15 Patent publication FR 2 794 418 discloses vehicle simulating accessories for shopping carts.

The child seat and the decoration shield can, each separately, be attached to the basket so that one type of child seat can be combined with different decoration shields on which, each time, other themes can be 20 expressed. Such an assembly of loose parts can have as an advantage that loose parts are light-weight and easy to manipulate.

The child seat and the decoration shield can also be fixedly connected to each other or detachably, by means of a quick-detachable coupling. This can have the advantage that the assembly of the child seat and decoration shield 25 can rapidly be placed on the basket of the shopping cart.

By placing the child seat adjacent the front side within the shopping basket, the nose of the basket can serve as protection for the child.

In an advantageous manner, the child seat and/or the decoration shield are provided with at least one overhang bracket with two legs connected by a connecting part, defining a groove for receiving the wall of the basket of the shopping cart therein, so that the child seat and/or the decoration shield
5 can be suspended in a substantially downward movement with the legs on
